

NATIONAL ACADEMY
OF SOCIAL INSURANCE

It's January and once again, NASI is recruiting for our summer internship programs. As NASI members, you are part of our 'front line' for finding excellent student talent.

NASI's internship programs --The Washington Internship on Social Insurance, The Somers Aging and Long-Term Care Internship, The Nathan J. Stark Internship for Non-Profit Development, and The Eileen Sweeney Graduate Internship in Disability Policy -- offer a wide array of opportunities and a $3,000 stipend. Descriptions of the programs and the online application form are available on the individual internship pages and on NASI's "Student Opportunities" page.

For 21 years, NASI's internship program has focused on developing young leaders in the social insurance field. Last year, eighteen outstanding young scholars were selected to spend their summer in Washington working in various agencies and organizations with NASI members in the field. The 2009 class of interns came from colleges and universities across the nation and included both undergraduate and graduate students in various fields of study, including Political Science, Economics, Social Work, Social Policy, Social Relations and Policy, Biology, Demography, Public Health, Health Sector Management, Health Policy and Administration Public Policy, Health Policy and Sociology.

This year we will have places for 15 to 18 summer interns. Think about the talented young people you know—students, friends, and relatives—and encourage them to apply for an exciting summer in Washington. Graduate students and upper division undergraduates are the most competitive, as are recent graduates looking to explore their next career choices.

Application deadline: March 1, 2010

If you have any questions, feel free to call NASI at 202-452-8097 or email us at internships@nasi.org.

2010 Law Clerks

Position Information

Employer: National Senior Citizens Law Center (Oakland, CA)

Division: N/A

Title: 2010 Law Clerks

Description: The National Senior Citizens Law Center (NSCLC), with offices in Oakland and Los Angeles, California, and Washington, D.C., is at the forefront of efforts to obtain justice for America's low-income elders and people with disabilities, with a special emphasis on problems affecting people of color and women. National and state advocacy efforts focus on access to health care, income support, long-term care, and access to the courts to enforce federal rights. In addition, NSCLC continues ongoing technical assistance and training for attorneys and other advocates nationwide in a variety of subject areas including health care reform, Medicaid, long-term care, Social Security and SSI. NSCLC also publishes the NSCLC Washington Weekly, periodic E-Alerts, and bi-monthly Medicare Part D Alerts. More information is available at www.nsclc.org.

D.C. Office: The student selected will have a chance to be involved firsthand in significant policy developments, and potentially litigation developments. Areas of the student's focus will be the impact of health care reform on older adults and persons with disabilities and the work of NSCLC's Federal Rights Project.

How our health care system can deliver necessary long term supports and services (LTSS) to older adults and persons with disabilities now and in the future is a critical question being addressed by the federal government and state governments alike. The student will assist NSCLC attorneys in tracking developments in different states that impact access to LTSS and monitoring the role of LTSS in the upcoming debates on health reform.

The Federal Rights Project works to defend and advance the enforcement of important individual legal rights and the availability of judicial remedies. FRP provides information, training and technical assistance to public interest attorneys; produces legal and policy research; writes amicus briefs; and engages in public education and policy advocacy. The law clerk will assist FRP attorneys with legal and policy research and analysis related to all areas of the Project's work.

Oakland Office: As in the D.C. office, the student selected will be able to work firsthand on national policy developments in arenas such as Medicare Part D, home and community based services, Medicaid/Medi-Cal, SSI and language access. The student may also have opportunities to work on ongoing litigation, including our California IHSS and Adult Day Health Care cases. The Oakland office is staffed by 4 attorneys and a legal assistant.

Los Angeles Office: Work in the Los Angeles office generally focuses on Medicaid, Social Security, Supplemental Security Income (SSI), and various aspects of long-term care (whether provided in the home or in a nursing home or assisted living facility). As is true in all NSCLC offices, the work is a combination of litigation, administrative advocacy, education, and other activities. The student will have an opportunity to do a significant amount of writing, with edits and comments provided by NSCLC attorneys.

Law Students Needed: NSCLC seeks a diverse selection of highly motivated law students to work in its three offices. For the summer of 2010, a limited number of $5000 stipends are available. Students are also strongly encouraged to seek funding from law schools and public interest funds where possible.

Qualifications: Candidates should have excellent research and writing skills, a genuine and documented interest in working for the disadvantaged, and an ability to take the initiative and work independently. Second year students are given priority, particularly if they may have an interest in seeking a fellowship with NSCLC post-graduation; outstanding first year students with a public interest track record are also encouraged to apply. Individuals with ties to low-income, racial/ethnic minority communities, and other underserved populations are encouraged to apply.
